Conference Info:

Continuing its history of excellent trainings and conferences, BISC-MI offers you a stimulating day, learning about how mental health issues impact our work in the domestic violence arena. Mental health issues can make assessments more difficult, diminish accountability and interfere with group dynamics.

Mental health experts will define and discuss several mental health diagnoses and issues. This will be followed by domestic violence professionals who will then lead open discussions to help us think more deeply about the topics and how we can better apply them to our work.

The 2009 BISC-MI Spring Training is designed to be informative and useful to many providers and domestic violence-connected professionals including:

- Courts and Probation
- Social Workers
- Community Mental Health
- Department of Human Services
- Survivor Services
- Batterer Intervention Providers
